

A PERSONAL ASTROLOGY REPORT

Your Chart, In Context

A personal reading for Avery

Avery | May 15, 1990 · 2:30 PM · New York, NY

A guided reading of calculated chart positions, original Synastry editorial and questions for your own reflection.

Avery's chart

Tropical positions and birth-time-dependent house cusps

Exact positions

- | | |
|----------------------------|--------------------------|
| 1. Sun 24.7° Taurus | 2. Moon 0.5° Aquarius |
| 3. Mercury 8.0° Taurus | 4. Venus 13.1° Aries |
| 5. Mars 18.5° Pisces | 6. Jupiter 9.6° Cancer |
| 7. Saturn 25.2° Capricorn | 8. Uranus 9.2° Capricorn |
| 9. Neptune 14.3° Capricorn | 10. Pluto 16.2° Scorpio |

Wheel position uses exact calculated longitude. Number labels separate nearby planets; the key gives the precise sign and degree.

Your chart at a glance

Calculated positions used throughout this reading.

Sun

24.7° Taurus · 9th House

Moon

0.5° Aquarius · 5th House

Mercury

8.0° Taurus · 8th House · retrograde

Venus

13.1° Aries · 7th House

Mars

18.5° Pisces · 6th House

Jupiter

9.6° Cancer · 10th House

Saturn

25.2° Capricorn · 5th House · retrograde

Uranus

9.2° Capricorn · 4th House · retrograde

Neptune

14.3° Capricorn · 4th House · retrograde

Pluto

16.2° Scorpio · 3rd House · retrograde

The personal planets

Identity, feeling, thought, affection and action.

Avery's Sun in Taurus

24.7° Taurus · 9th House

At your center, you may be learning to trust what is steady, tangible, and worth tending-especially around belief, learning, exploration, and meaning.

Your strength: Your capacity to radiate purpose may draw on patience, embodiment, and loyalty to what truly matters.

Watch for: When recognition feels uncertain, you may perform instead of reveal yourself; staying safe can harden into resisting a necessary change. This pattern is not your identity.

| REFLECT Where does this sun theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Moon in Aquarius

0.5° Aquarius · 5th House

To feel safe enough to soften, you may think beyond inherited rules and make room for a truer future-especially around creativity, pleasure, romance, and being seen.

Your strength: Your emotional intelligence may draw on originality, clear perspective, and care for the larger pattern.

Watch for: When safety feels uncertain, old defenses may answer first; independence can become distance or let the idea eclipse the person. This pattern is not your identity.

| REFLECT Where does this moon theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Mercury in Taurus

8.0° Taurus · 8th House · retrograde

Your mind may feel most alive when it can trust what is steady, tangible, and worth tending-especially around trust, intimacy, shared power, and renewal. You may know it inwardly first.

Your strength: Your gift for understanding and expression may draw on patience, embodiment, and loyalty to what truly matters.

Watch for: When clarity feels urgent, thought may race ahead of understanding; staying safe can harden into resisting a necessary change. This pattern is not your identity.

Retrograde layer: Mercury was retrograde at birth.

REFLECT Where does this mercury theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Venus in Aries

13.1° Aries · 7th House

Your heart may recognize beauty and belonging when you act on what feels true instead of waiting for permission-especially around partnership, reciprocity, and one-to-one commitment.

Your strength: Your gift for connection and discernment may draw on courage, candor, and permission to begin.

Watch for: When belonging feels at risk, pleasing may replace honest reciprocity; speed can outrun reflection or turn uncertainty into a fight. This pattern is not your identity.

REFLECT Where does this venus theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Mars in Pisces

18.5° Pisces · 6th House

Your courage may gather when you feel beyond words and let imagination reveal what logic cannot-especially around work, wellbeing, service, and daily rhythm.

Your strength: Your capacity for clean action and boundaries may draw on compassion, imagination, and trust in life's subtler currents.

Watch for: When desire is blocked, urgency may replace clean assertion; openness can blur limits or make longing feel more solid than fact. This pattern is not your identity.

REFLECT Where does this mars theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

The wider landscape

These placements add context without defining your choices.

Avery's Jupiter in Cancer

9.6° Cancer · 10th House

Life may feel meaningful when you protect what is tender and remember what others miss-especially around vocation, visibility, responsibility, and legacy.

Your strength: Your ability to restore possibility may draw on care, intuition, and the courage to need.

Watch for: When hope feels threatened, certainty may replace curiosity; protection can become retreat or an unspoken test of care. This pattern is not your identity.

REFLECT Where does this jupiter theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Saturn in Capricorn

25.2° Capricorn · 5th House · retrograde

You may build self-respect as you learn to take responsibility for what you want to build and become-especially around creativity, pleasure, romance, and being seen. You may know it inwardly first.

Your strength: Your earned authority and endurance may draw on patience, strategy, and strength that deepens over time.

Watch for: When failure feels close, control or shame may replace patient effort; self-command can become severity or make rest feel undeserved. This pattern is not your identity.

Retrograde layer: Saturn was retrograde at birth.

REFLECT Where does this saturn theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Uranus in Capricorn

9.2° Capricorn · 4th House · retrograde

You may feel most yourself when you are free to take responsibility for what you want to build and become—especially around home, roots, and your private emotional foundation. You may know it inwardly first.

Your strength: Your liberating originality may draw on patience, strategy, and strength that deepens over time.

Watch for: When freedom feels threatened, disruption may replace discernment; self-command can become severity or make rest feel undeserved. This pattern is not your identity.

Retrograde layer: Uranus was retrograde at birth.

REFLECT Where does this uranus theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Neptune in Capricorn

14.3° Capricorn · 4th House · retrograde

Your imagination may open when you take responsibility for what you want to build and become—especially around home, roots, and your private emotional foundation. You may know it inwardly first.

Your strength: Your sensitivity and creative vision may draw on patience, strategy, and strength that deepens over time.

Watch for: When reality disappoints, longing may replace clear seeing; self-command can become severity or make rest feel undeserved. This pattern is not your identity.

Retrograde layer: Neptune was retrograde at birth.

REFLECT Where does this neptune theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Avery's Pluto in Scorpio

16.2° Scorpio · 3rd House · retrograde

Your deepest changes may begin when you stay with what is real even when it changes you-especially around language, learning, and everyday connection. You may know it inwardly first.

Your strength: Your regenerative strength may draw on depth, loyalty, and the courage to face what others avoid.

Watch for: When vulnerability feels dangerous, control may replace honest surrender; self-protection can become secrecy, control, or a test no one agreed to take. This pattern is not your identity.

Retrograde layer: Pluto was retrograde at birth.

| REFLECT Where does this pluto theme fit your experience, and where does your experience differ?

Connections within the chart

The closest major aspects bring chart themes into conversation.

Jupiter opposition Uranus

Calculated natal aspect · orb 0.42°

Feels like: Jupiter and Uranus may face each other like mirrors, making growth and change feel magnetic, contrasting, and mutually revealing.

Your strength: Holding growth and change together can deepen perspective and help you honor two truths without abandoning either.

Watch for: growth and change may split into projection or extremes; reclaiming both sides can restore balance and choice.

| REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Sun trine Saturn

Calculated natal aspect · orb 0.59°

Feels like: Sun and Saturn may move together almost instinctively, letting identity and discipline flow before you consciously choose how to use them.

Your strength: Natural fluency between identity and discipline can become a steady resource when you give the ease a meaningful task.

Watch for: identity and discipline may run on autopilot; inviting challenge and feedback can keep familiar ease alive and open new choices.

| REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Mercury trine Uranus

Calculated natal aspect · orb 1.19°

Feels like: Mercury and Uranus may move together almost instinctively, letting thought and change flow before you consciously choose how to use them.

Your strength: Natural fluency between thought and change can become a steady resource when you give the ease a meaningful task.

Watch for: thought and change may run on autopilot; inviting challenge and feedback can keep familiar ease alive and open new choices.

REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Venus square Neptune

Calculated natal aspect · orb 1.22°

Feels like: Venus and Neptune may press against each other, turning values and imagination into a restless inner friction that asks for movement.

Your strength: Honest friction between values and imagination can sharpen priorities and build courage that feels earned rather than borrowed.

Watch for: values and imagination may harden into an urgent either-or; slowing the reaction can make room for both needs and restore choice.

REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Mercury sextile Jupiter

Calculated natal aspect · orb 1.61°

Feels like: Mercury and Jupiter may sense an easy opening, letting thought and growth cooperate in a way that feels promising but easy to miss.

Your strength: Cooperation between thought and growth can turn a quiet possibility into a skill you can rely on through practice.

Watch for: thought and growth may wait quietly for perfect conditions; one deliberate choice can keep this gift from staying dormant.

REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Neptune sextile Pluto

Calculated natal aspect · orb 1.81°

Feels like: Neptune and Pluto may sense an easy opening, letting imagination and transformation cooperate in a way that feels promising but easy to miss.

Your strength: Cooperation between imagination and transformation can turn a quiet possibility into a skill you can rely on through practice.

Watch for: imagination and transformation may wait quietly for perfect conditions; one deliberate choice can keep this gift from staying dormant.

REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Mars trine Pluto

Calculated natal aspect · orb 2.37°

Feels like: Mars and Pluto may move together almost instinctively, letting action and transformation flow before you consciously choose how to use them.

Your strength: Natural fluency between action and transformation can become a steady resource when you give the ease a meaningful task.

Watch for: action and transformation may run on autopilot; inviting challenge and feedback can keep familiar ease alive and open new choices.

REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Venus square Jupiter

Calculated natal aspect · orb 3.53°

Feels like: Venus and Jupiter may press against each other, turning values and growth into a restless inner friction that asks for movement.

Your strength: Honest friction between values and growth can sharpen priorities and build courage that feels earned rather than borrowed.

Watch for: values and growth may harden into an urgent either-or; slowing the reaction can make room for both needs and restore choice.

REFLECT How do these two needs work together in your life?

Lunar-node reflection

Avery's lunar-node axis: Aquarius and Leo

Mean North Node 11.3° Aquarius · 5th House | Mean South Node 11.3° Leo · 11th House

The calculated Mean North Node falls in Aquarius and the 5th House; its opposite Mean South Node falls in Leo and the 11th House. This axis offers a way to compare an unfamiliar direction with a familiar one, without calling either position a destiny or a flaw.

These are mean lunar nodes from Astronomy Engine mean lunar node. They differ slightly from true-node calculations, which is why the calculation choice is named here.

REFLECT What qualities do you associate with Leo's familiar side, and what would exploring Aquarius's side look like in your own life?

Questions to carry forward

Observe the whole pattern

A chart is a set of symbolic lenses. Notice which themes help describe your actual experience and which do not.

| REFLECT What tension or recurring strength connects at least two placements in this report?

Choose a next step

Return to these pages as your circumstances change.

| REFLECT What small action would help you test an insight from this report?

Method and limits

Avery: tropical zodiac; houses: placidus; calculation: Astronomy Engine 2.1.19; birth details: May 15, 1990 · 2:30 PM · New York, NY.

This report uses calculated natal positions and matched Synastry editorial. It does not use current transits or predict an outcome. Astrology is a symbolic perspective for reflection.

The chart describes symbols, not facts about personality, consent, future events or relationship outcomes. Keep what is useful and set aside what does not fit.